BELMONT SENIOR HIGH SCHOOL

BELMONT, MASSACHUSETTS

The old structure still stands
with experience and age,
through trying times its corridors have bellowed agony,
and its cafeteria
has swelled up with ecstasy.
How diversified Belmont High
has been.

What we would
now call the present—
it has taken on new leadership,
with regard to a principal;
it has taken on student government,
no more codes for students' clothes;
and it will take on a new form,
but the Old will not die.

Within less than a year,
the darkening red bricks
will collect their ivy,
and the old Orchard Street school
will be long-forgotten.

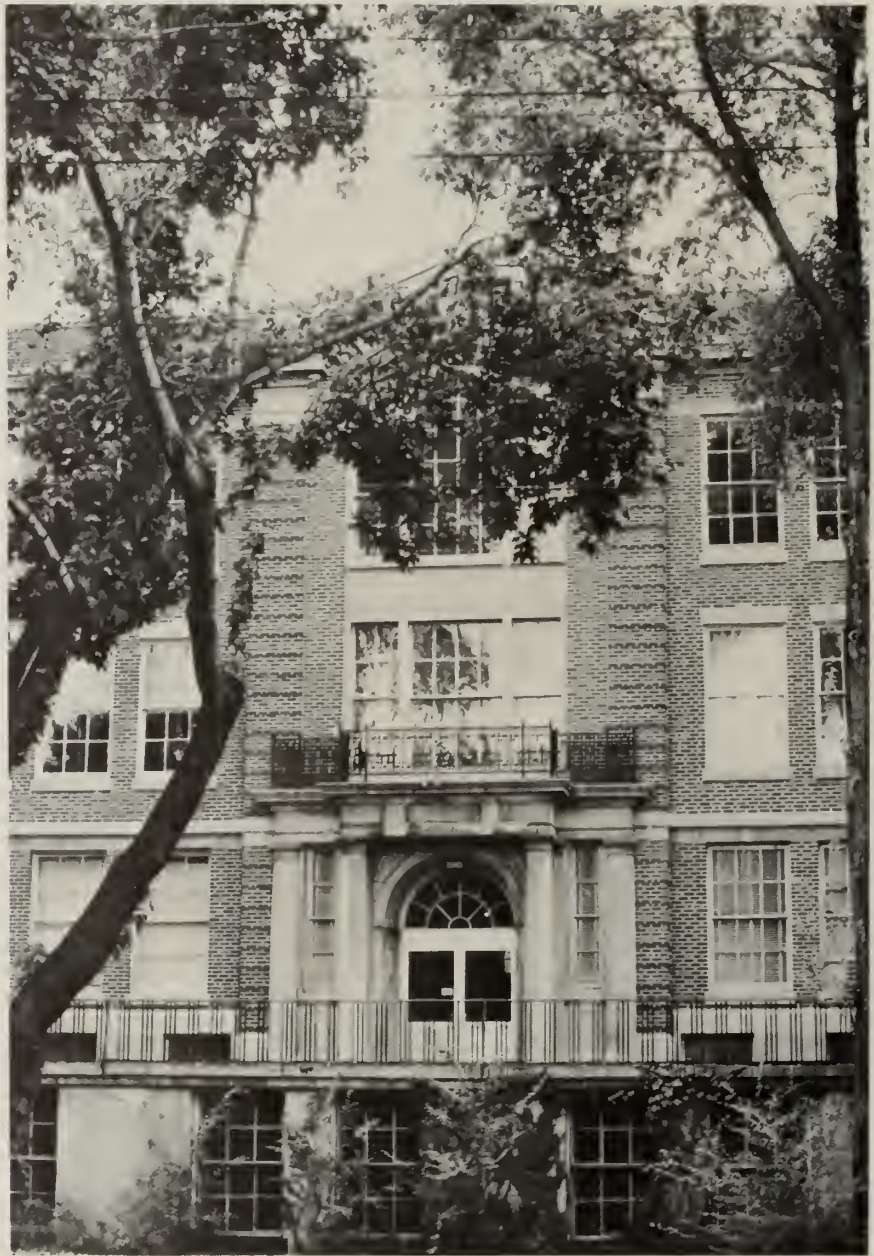

Old must give way to Young,
but what is new today—
is old tomorrow.
The fire it survived
or the double sessions
begun in March,
will all become ancient history
in the annals of the town of Belmont.

The final construction
of a new Belmont High,
will succeed in preparing
its youth for the future—
this once accepted as current events,
will soon sit side by side
with countless items
of old news.

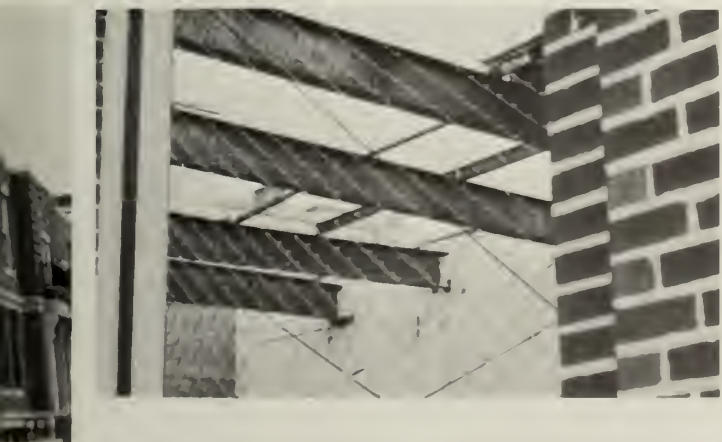

The New
will include a campus-big and beautiful;
who could ever have dreamed
of such a reality!
Yet the dream will soon be fulfilled.

But before it is,
we, some of the members of the Old—the class of '70—wish you—the long line of classes who will be entering the New—
a sincere hope,
that the New
will serve you—
as the Old has served us.

Howard Goldstein

Administration

Mr. Robert J. O'Donnell
Principal

Mr. George W. Stone
Assistant Principal

The three members of the administrative staff are men often left unrecognized by students. They are the ones who deftly handle the intricate and time-consuming details related to organizing the functions of the administration.

Mr. O'Donnell, in his second year of office, has been developing effective curricular plans for the new high school. He has listened with genuine interest to the wishes of student groups and has attempted to implement those requests which were practical and desirable.

Devoting their time to the regulations and the code of the high school, Mr. Stone and Mr. Sullivan have been capable assistants to the principal.

Mr. Corrigan, as director of the vocational-technical portion of the school, has co-ordinated curricula to teach young men the vocational skills necessary for a technical career.

Each man has successfully fulfilled his duty to enhance the benefits that students may receive from a public education. They are responsible for earning Belmont High School the fine reputation that it has.

Miss Dorothy M. Anderson

The Guidance Office was a busy place! One by one we made appointments and often waited to discuss program changes, electives for the next year, SAT's, ACH's, college selection, career plans, part-time employment, and a myriad of other details. Some of us enjoyed taking the Kuder and other interest and aptitude tests.

Mr. William J. Brogna
Guidance Counselor

Once in a while we just needed to talk things over; sometimes for encouragement and direction, and other times just to sit down with an interested listener who would let us think out loud about our personal problems.

Now we are leaving for higher schools and colleges, employment, and life. We thank the counselors for their guidance along our way.

English is our most popular and fundamental subject—just look at the percentage of students who have willfully elected English as their major language! . . . Why can't I take Spanish instead of English? . . . Why do our books always omit the best Shakespearean passages? . . . What vocabulary lesson are we having today? . . . You children do not even know how to write a paragraph! . . . So that's why Hester Prynne had an "A" on her dress! . . . doesn't parallelism have some connection with Geometry? . . . finish the books and write your theme . . . similes, metaphors, personification—after reading that poem I feel completely alliterated . . . Moby Dick is alive and well in Belmont . . . don't say it, write it! . . . Why can't we have a course called Conversational English?

From "le Moyen Age" through Becket . . . Georges et Estelle sont sur la Tour Eiffel . . . How about an "explication de texte" for tomorrow? . . . But what about those who didn't go to France, this summer? . . . Now, what's the difference between Corneille and Racine? . . . French writers are the greatest, but we would get to know them a lot better if they didn't cut out all those good parts.

Guten Tag und Willkommen for your next 3 years of Deutsch mit Herrn Penta. In diese drei years, you run into interesting dialogues of Fritz mit his "Wie geht's" und "danke" 's; die deutsche Bible, Cochran—chapter 11; Schiller's ballads oder Sachsse's senility—Gott in Himmel!!—You might not find a gute recipe for Sauerkraut mit Herrn Penta, aber it would be safe zu sagen, you learn your Deutsch.

Spanish

Attention! Latin is alive and doing quite well at Belmont High. Even Caesar's advanced military tactics are fun and easy to understand when demonstrated by Miss Keating. There is a lot to be learned from Cicero's defense and prosecuting tactics, "but I shall pass over these things." And if one reaches the poetry of Horace, he discovers that much of what Horace wrote is applicable even today.

Students are first introduced to Spanish through conversational drills. As the class advances, the translating of select passages and the writing of simple compositions is gradually incorporated into the curriculum. At the same time, the classes are exposed to an explanation of Spanish speaking people and their ways of life.

Italian Class is not only a period devoted to the development of fundamental skills and grammar, but also to the candid review of Italian ways of life.

Through dialogues and letters, students strengthen vocabulary and pronunciation and at the same time, learn to differentiate Italian forms of emotion through figures of speech.

Only one year of American history is required to graduate, but many go beyond the requirements and end up having a lot of fun (look, Ma, I can inductively reason). But if you can't read, forget it. The miracle of paperbacks has made it possible to read five books simultaneously, and ... "What were the causes of WWI?" ... "I think Tiny Tim is a Mod Probl!" World history and geography have their own characters—What would we do without Francis Ferdinand and the chief exports of Argentina? ... "Liberals, conservatives and the know-nothings" ... Problem: What is there besides the classroom of lectures, descriptions, movies, slides, and discussion?

Materials: The scientific method in approaching a problem.

Hypothesis: The laboratory, where the pleasant undertaking of dissecting frogs, synthesizing substances, and alloying amino acids occurs amidst the omniscient and omnipotent smell of formaldehyde.

Observations: Such familiar sights as the model of DNA (deoxyribose nucleic acid), the 30 live lizards, the 27 croaked crickets or even Mr. Howick’s pet tarantula.

Data: Mr. Holbrook’s taxing talks timed to taxonomy and genetics are of utter importance.

Conclusion: Between the classroom and the laboratory, one can learn a great deal about life through the study of biology.

Models, music, flowers, applause—fond mothers and the Belmontian Club watching, all enjoying tea ... The foyer showcase exhibits many coveted smart ensembles for the talented seamstress ... Five-eighths of an inch seam allowance and don’t forget to clip the curves ... Don’t you think that skirt could be a little longer ... Oh, well, F.D. is fun!

Good cooking is an art, and students in the Foods Class are cultivating it through experience. A relaxed atmosphere is created, and it is comparable to a good home situation. After learning basic techniques, these skills will be applied to serving meals to outside groups and teachers. Several awards and prizes are available to the students: the Betty Crocker Homemaker of the Year Award, the Annual Crisco Award, and awards for the best cook in BHS and the outstanding home economics student. Other benefits? Well . . . You don't have to eat the school lunch!

Art; Art Club; Yearbook

Even with the addition of midyears and finals this year, art still reigns as the most popular elective offered by the school. More and more students are discovering that this is the course to take for freedom of expression and a relaxed atmosphere. Creativity is encouraged, and the art department hopes that if a student is truly interested and has just a little imagination, talent will be the result. The works of art on display in the halls are proof of that. And since we all know that artists must suffer, we accept such hardships as having to share one old, worn-out sink between two classes.

Music

Music I is the answer to the question, "How did this ever get started?" Students trace the history of music as well as its relation to art and learn of the lives of past composers. The course is "general and non-technical," and enjoyable even if you are not musically inclined.

To all qualified students, BHS offers a more intensive course—ear training, music theory, and elementary harmony ... "You mean we have to write an original piece?"

Even now the clarinet section is dreading that their part will again be in the violin's range, and all ponder the first wavering strains of the "Mr. Tower March".

The excellent facilities of the Belmont Vocational-Technical High School allow the student an opportunity to learn skills for the attainment of gainful employment. Towards this end the student is taught to manipulate all types of tools and machines—and in the process he comes to value the importance of precision and the art of craftsmanship. This growing awareness should lead to an appreciation of his own worth and to an understanding of his human dignity and approaching manhood. This development instills in the student an attitude of responsibility which will permit him to become a useful member of adult society as well as a successful and reliable craftsman.

Driver's Education

"Never allow a piece of work to leave your hands until you are proud of it." Perched atop their stools, with pencil and ruler in hand, the members of the mechanical drawing class are learning the "universal language." Precision and accuracy make this course a challenging one, and their mastery gives the student a feeling of pride and accomplishment. With the basis that this course provides, he can go on to many interesting and challenging occupations. The opportunity for creativity is there, but at the same time, you have guidelines for your work ... "Don't play with the T-squares!" ... The next step is to build that cottage you've designed.

"If you don't look, I'll give you 30 lashes in front of the school!" It is a well known fact that Mr. Hedemark has nerves of steel. Who else could take 30 students at 20 minutes a piece, every week and still have patience with each little darling? ... "You didn't give me a hum hum?" But everyone has to start somewhere, and if we go through a few stop signs ... Well, we're sure to improve by the next lesson ... "Let's take the Chapman Tour." Driver's Education has been fun and profitable, but our only regret is that we gave the teacher a whiplashed neck!!

Carleton L. Seaman
Machine and Track

Carleton L. Seaman was appointed Machine Shop Instructor in the Belmont Vocational High School September, 1944, after teaching at Wentworth Institute during World War II on the U.S. Naval Training Program. He is a graduate of Wentworth Institute and of Fitchburg State College.

Interested in sports and especially in track, he was appointed to coaching duties on the Cross Country and Spring Track programs. In 1951 he started the Indoor Track Program and had State Championship teams in 1955, 1960, 1961, and 1963. In this field he was President of the Mass. Track Coaches Association.

Anyone who knows Mr. Seaman realizes his interest in fishing. He has been a member of the Newton Anglers Club for many years.

Howard A. Nettleton
Director of Music

Mr. Nettleton is completing thirteen years of devoted service to Belmont High School. Under his able leadership, the Music Department has added an important dimension to our student activities.

Interested music students have had ample opportunities to continue their musical studies in both curricular and co-curricular organizations.

Our band has performed admirably on the football field in the fall. Both band and orchestra have brought praise through their Spring Concert.

Mr. Nettleton's vocal groups were eagerly sought by local organizations. Their delightful renditions enhanced our reputation in the community.

Despite the wonders of computer programming, which scheduled less than 20 people into the band period, the band did manage to assemble en masse each Saturday morning for practice and the afternoon football game. The most memorable and successful game was certainly with Cambridge High and Latin. There was little rivalry between the two bands in the stands, each having contributed equally to the half time show. Then Cambridge High and Latin Quintet visited the Belmont stands and taught the band the tune now fondly called "Jazz Thing." Long live their trombone player!!

Modern French culture played an important part in the activities of the French Club this year, which began with an intellectual finger painting session for all those budding Renoirs. Students vigorously discussed plans for activities such as viewing modern French movies, and the theater sectors of the paper were scanned. As a result, a modern French play at the Loeb Drama Center was viewed, and it would have been "magnifique" if the characters had spoken "en anglais" (and maybe moved their arms a little . . .) Der Deutsche Verein

It would be almost trite to say that the German club remains one of the most active clubs in the school. Among the numerous social activities were parties, ping pong, tobogganning, and even making a German dinner. Culturally, the club has had the opportunity to attend a wide variety of plays, operas, and lectures, both in English and German. The annual German event, "Tivoli," at Boston University, was again a great success. In the field of athletics, the club has formed a volleyball team and other language clubs were challenged. In all aspects, Der Deutsche Verein has long been a club of continuous activity and this year was by far no exception.

The way to Russia is through the stomachs of the students of Belmont High School! The Russian Club has staged many activities this year in order to earn forty-three thousand dollars to pay for a trip to Russia. Students swarmed to the cafeteria to partake of delicacies at the Russian Club food sales. A gala Russian Club dinner celebrated the end of mid-year exams, to the gastronomical delight of all who attended, and resulted in an increase in the size of the Russian Club Treasury.

The Roman Era was characterized by strong family ties, elaborate dress, power struggles, the extremes of poverty and wealth, corruption, and reform. Latin scholars wrote about this era with flair and insight, so that their works can be enjoyed and applied even today. The Latin Club realized this, and tried to illustrate Roman works and culture this year through movies, plays and other functions. Latin is certainly not dead, and the Latin Club is enlightening more and more people to the fact that it can be useful and enjoyable. (These don't taste like Latin cookies?)

Mention of the Forum Club brings to mind its efforts in making the October 15 Moratorium Program as successful as it was.

In an effort to make the seminar programs more and more informative, the club polled history classes for ideas concerning subjects and speakers to include in discussions. This proved very successful, and at last word members were still in search of Roxanne Dunbar, Jonathan Kozol, and the local faction of SDS.

Public Speaking Club

The Public Speaking Club sprang into this year with activities to loosen up the body such as hopping around like a kangaroo, vaulting over desks, and driving imaginary golf balls. But PSC is not merely an athletic organization! The members gave speeches on personal experiences (How to Demolish a Canoe) and read poetry and plays for voice interpretation. They learned to speak without shuffling their feet or fiddling with their fingers. PSC hopes to enter a contest to display its oratorical skills. Ad infinitum!

Science Club

Inspired by the third period physics class' redecoration of room 210, the Science Club again took up the task of finding centrifugal force, wherever it may hide. Beginning at a member's home in Belmont, where instant insanity and a study of the flight patterns of pillows occupied an industrious evening, the group proceeded to the nation's capital, in hopes that the hidden force might be there. Unsuccessful, yet undaunted, they regrouped and headed toward the Cape. And there, in a small back room, the search was ended. The handwriting was on the wall, word for word from the physics book . . . "there is no such force."

Art Club

This year the Art Club experimented with a new idea. The jobs normally handled by the art department became workshop material for the club members. They worked on signs, posters, and department requests. The new Signpress aided in producing professional looking signs and gave the students a new art experience.

"Mirage" is Belmont High School's popular literary magazine. Students submit their "masterpieces" which are printed along with art work in an informal magazine. Students are encouraged to join the staff and bring their literary talents.

Folk Workshop

Pres.: B. Glickman; V.Pres.: J. Seneca; Sec.: E. Hermanson; Treas.: R. Dorr; Adv.: Miss Weingarten.

Whether you enjoy Baez, the Beatles, or Ravi Shanker, the Folk Workshop will serve you special musical interest. We do things from folk concert presentations to bi-monthly jam sessions. Anyone interested in music is welcome, so if you're willing to bring along your voice and/or instrument and let yourself go—the Folk Workshop is for you.

In its second year, the Belmont High Chess Club continues to display an intellectual atmosphere as it matches wits among its members. Tension builds with each game, as the teams slowly eliminate the pawns, knights, bishops, rooks, queens and finally—the king! The terrific tension is terminated by a climatic check-mate. What breath-taking action there was as the Club played its thrilling match against Belmont Hill, which ended in a draw! The strained brains of competition were then at ease. Whether one is a member or not, one must agree that chess stimulates not only the mind, but also the spirit of intellectual competition.

Junior Red Cross

The Junior Red Cross sponsored a unique fund-raising jewelry sale to raise money for a wheelchair to be donated to a children's hospital in honor of Miss Eva Davis. During the Christmas season the girls dressed dolls for underprivileged children. The club also collected approximately $35.00 from the students and faculty to aid those left homeless by hurricane, Camille.

Pep Squad

In an attempt to promote school spirit the Pep Squad was re-organized this year. This merry group could be seen every Saturday at football games wearing maroon and white shakers and belting out cheer after cheer. They were responsible for the vibrant decorations of buses and leading the motorcade to games, a hearty bake sale, and free coffee and donuts for the band and cheerleaders after the Thanksgiving game. Maybe next year they will sell the Marauder beanies and bumper stickers!

The Varsity Club consists of the students in the school who have had the honor of receiving their varsity jackets through participation in some varsity sport. The club has become very active this year and so far its main project has been the selling of crew shirts.

With the backing of the students in the club this fine organization is sure to have continuous success in the future.

Key Club

The Key Club, although inactive until the spring, held various fund-raising projects to present two scholarships to the graduating class. The Pancake Breakfast, which was postponed from January to May, was the club's major source of funds for the scholarships. During the spring there were inter-club meetings with the key clubs of Arlington and Wayland, which were interesting for all those in attendance. The Key Club ended the year on a successful note.

Pres.: J. Berlo; V. Pres.: L. Matz; Sec.: L. Goldenberg; Treas.: L. Bedig; Adv.: Miss Rigaud.

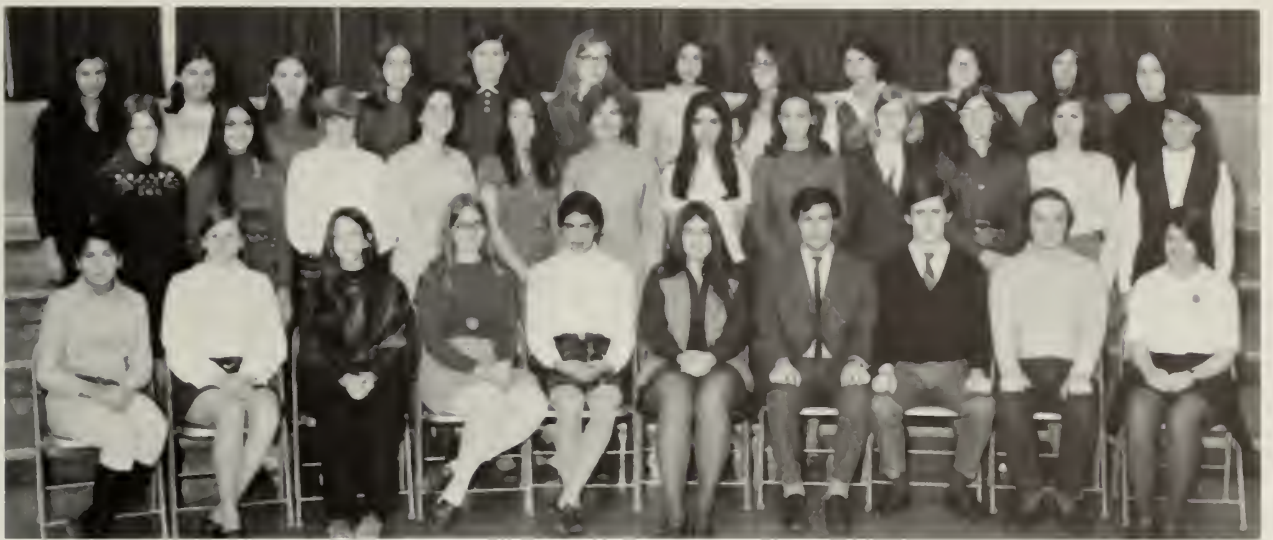

Shakespeare Club

"The oats have eaten the horses?" . . . "There will be no skiing from now until production time!" . . . This is the way to kill a wife with kindness." But the show must go on—despite chipped thumbs, bruised heads, and various broken collarbones . . .

The Shakespeare Club chose the Taming of the Shrew as its annual play. The members had a choice of trying out for a part or contributing to the final production by working on the costume, makeup, set, lighting, sound or advertising committees. All efforts were coordinated into the performances by the assistant director, production manager and our faculty advisor-director, and the production was put on in May.

Entertainment Society

The Entertainment Society is a new title for an old club that has been reorganized this year.

The original Drama Club was formed in 1940 by Mr Edmund MacClosky, who advised the club until 1957. The club presented productions during the Thanksgiving and Christmas assemblies; they used timely subjects with scripts written by the students, scripts of old radio programs. Between 1943 and 1946, the Drama Club competed in the Massachusetts Drama Festival.

Miss Ruth Zimmerman advised the club from 1958 until 1961. During this era, the Drama Club was successful with entries in the Drama Festival and various other activities. Miss Emily Gross took over in 1962 and stayed until 1964. The last year Belmont competed in the Massachusetts Drama Festival was 1962.

The Drama Club continued with workshops and various productions. In 1965, Mr. Paul Nichols headed a very active club, which did Shakespearean readings and a theatre-in-the-round production of the Greek play, Antigone.

During the summer of 1969, a drama club was conceived with the aims of providing an organization open to the entire school with workshops, readings, and productions, just as Mr. MacClosky had done thirty years before. It's a separate entity from the Senior play and the Shakespeare Club. Miss Currie directs its plays. The Entertainment Society entered the Massachusetts Drama Festival with the one play, Wit's End. It is off to a good start and the club is destined for success in the new high school.

Even before the school year actually commenced, this year's student council was already hard at work with Mr. Crowley as its new advisor. The council has worked endlessly in pursuing its goals: to increase school spirit and to promote a better learning atmosphere throughout the school. At the weekly meetings, representatives debated the more basic problems confronting our school, such as study halls, dress code, exam schedules, and curricula, to mention only a few. It is very encouraging to note the increased activity of the 1969-70 student council, and with added support of the entire student body, there is great hope for an ever more participatory council in years to come.

Student Council

Student At BHS Open D

The Student Council at about 11:30 a.m. this week called a meeting to discuss the school's future. The council is made up of students from all grades and is the only body in the school that represents the entire student body. The council has been working on many projects, including the school's future, and is now in the process of planning for the future. The council has been very active in the past, and is expected to continue its work in the future.

Football

A season which started with great promise ended in a very disappointing loss to Watertown. The Maroon Marauders won their first two games by scores of 14-8 and 7-0 over Lexington and Reading respectively. The Marauders displayed a tough defense against Reading, keeping the Rockets out of the end when they had a first down on the Belmont three. Some hard nose tackling was done by Tom Mulligan and Mike Pizzi on the left and by Dick Delacy and Jim Connelly on the right. Jim's brother, Bob, had already picked off two Lexington passes the week before. Against Reading, however, the Marauders lost the valuable services of running back Steve O'Neil when he was sidelined for the season.

The homeless Belmont team travelled to Melrose where they almost pulled a major upset. However, inability to score spelled their downfall, failing to score three times inside the Melrose ten yard line. Belmont won only one more game and finished the season with 3 wins and 6 losses.

Cross Country

The cross-country team suffered a disappointing season this year. They finished last in the Middlesex League and without a victory. Adding to the disappointment was the fact that Coach Seaman was finishing his long coaching career after this year and the runners were not able to give him at least one victory. The team had a couple of pleasant surprises with many good sophomores, especially Wally Swanton, running well. Art Battle, Dick Kelley, and Joe Tryon started running much better late in the season and show a lot of promise for next year. Keith Allen, Bob Pitts, and Rick Markussen were consistent runners the whole season. Even though we had many good runners we still could not pull out a victory even though we almost won a hard fought battle with Melrose. Some people say we did!

Soccer

This year's Soccer Team had a dream come true. In 1968 if some one mentioned "State Championships" or even "League Champions" to the team he would be laughed at. But if the question was asked to the Soccer squad this year the reply would be quite different. Belmont became co-champs of the Middlesex League.

All through the season Belmont played a tight defensive game lead by John Feeley, Dave Malenka and Bob Norris. But its offense didn't slip by unnoticed. Captain Tony Dutra led the way to many victories aided by Brian McKenney, Bill Boyle, Mark Chursz, Rick Freeman, John Caccamo, Andy Sims, and Jim Cook. Earlier and tougher practices called by Coach MacBain and Russell was a contributing factor to the teams success.

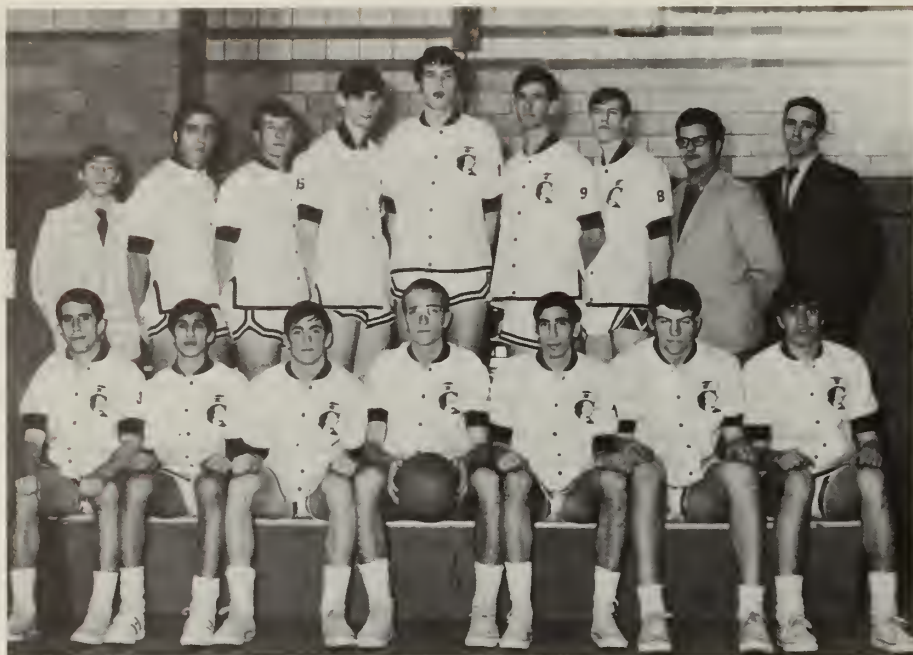

Success, however, was shared with another team, the Minutemen from Lexington. A playoff was held and a tough Belmont kept pace with Lexington, ending the game in a 2-2 tie with 6 overtimes. Another playoff was held to see who would enter the "States" and this time Lexington downed Belmont 1-0. Belmont still had it co-champ title but did not go in the championships.

Belmont proved to itself and to everyone else that soccer is here to stay and that Belmont can play it with the best of them, and maybe next year, "state champions" will become a greater reality.

Coach: Mr. Russell.

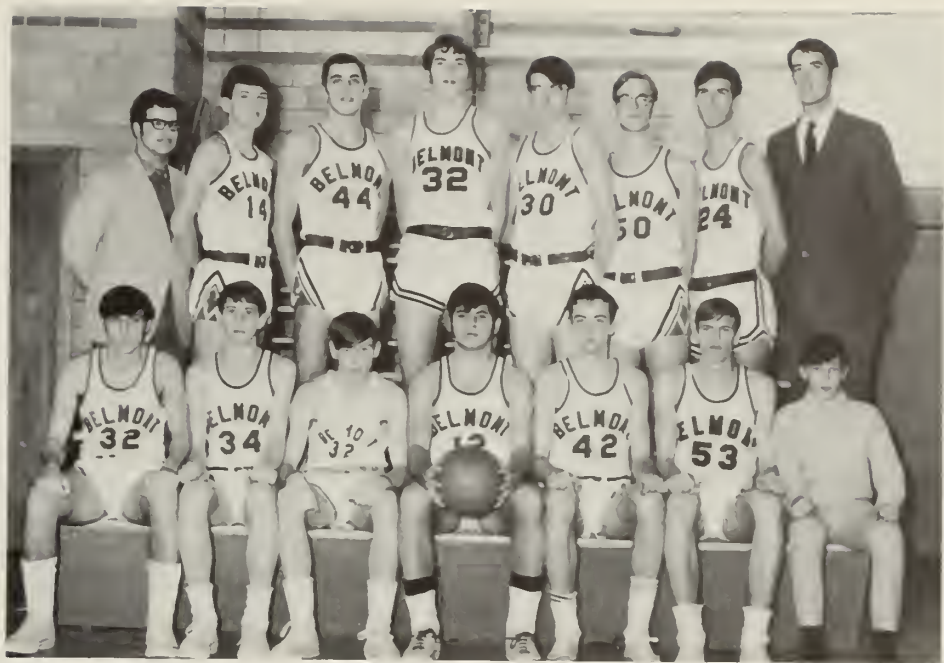

Captain: M. Chrusz; Coach: Mr. Hayes.

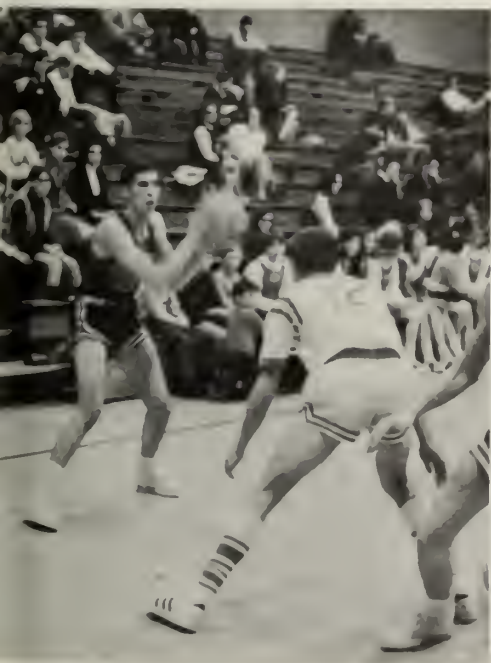

Basketball

Despite the disappointing season that the Belmont High basketball team experienced this year, fine efforts were turned in by many of the individual players. Led by Captain Mark Chrusz, who scored over 300 points, the Marauders pulled some near upsets throughout the year. Artie Rouse and Jim Connelly were strong on the boards, while Bill Boyle, Dave Hansen, and Brian McKenney added strength and depth to the backcourt. The team spirit was often lifted by the defensive play of Tony Dutra. With many returning J.V. and varsity players, Coaches Hayes, McGuirk, and Mullin are looking forward to a promising season next year.

Coach: Mr. McGuirk.

Captain: S. Blanchette; Coach: Mr. Crowley; Asst. Coaches: Mr. Viglirolo, Mr. Amato.

For the second year in a row, Belmont High's hockey team missed qualifying for the States by one game. That one game was a loss to the League champion, Stoneham, by a score of 2-1. To make matters worse Stoneham scored the winning goal with only 23 seconds remaining in the game.

Led by all-star defenseman and captain Steve Blanchette and high-scoring (29 points) center John Caccamo, the Marauders created havoc among the top three teams, beating Stoneham once, Wakefield twice, and tying Melrose twice. Belmont's downfall came from lesser clubs, however, as they lost to Winchester twice, Concord and Reading once.

Co-Captains: R. Pitts, R. Canina; Coach: Mr. Seaman.

The indoor track team has had a disappointing year. The team, co-captained this year by Bob Pitts and Ralph Canina, has seen some individual efforts and personal improvements. The team has three outstanding sophomores in Wally Swanton and Billy Markussen in the two mile and Wally Littlewood in the high jump; three fine improving juniors in Joe Tryon in the mile, Arthur Parsons in the 1000 and Chuck Gangas in the 300, and has seen such seniors as "rookie" Bill Auffinger who has done a good job for his first association with the hurdles, Bob Pitts in the 600, Ralph Canina, greatly improved in the shot put, Rick Markussen in the dash and Mike Najarian in the mile.

Mr. Seaman, who is now in his last year as track coach, is optimistic as any good coach should be about the future. With the sophomores gaining more experience under their belts and the juniors improving on personal skills, we should have a better team next year and watch out for years to come.

Head down—arms straight—always watch—ing out for the attacker. These are some of the endless rules of a field hockey player. Each year a relatively small, but devoted group of girls take part in this seemingly unrecognized sport. Not much, if any of the glory of athletes goes out to these “ladies of the fields,” but this never seems to rile them, because they are doing it for the fun and pride of their school—not status.

Foreign Students

Seated: H. Johnson, S. LeFort; Standing: M. Bergana, P. Einarsson, G. Chevalier.

We have been very fortunate to have our foreign students attending Belmont High this year. They have stimulated an interest in their own language and culture. We hope that they will return with many pleasant memories of their stay in America.

Cette année aura été des plus fructueuses pour moi et je tiens à remercier tous ceux qui m'ont aidé. J'ai rencontré de merveilleux amis, ici et je n'oublierai pas cette année de si tôt.

Jérard Chevalier

Pourquo m'est-il si difficile d'écrire en français? Quand je suis arrivée ici, je ne parlais pas un mot d'anglais, et maintenant, à ma grande stupéfaction je suis incapable d'alligner deux phrases en français sans me poser sans arrêt cette question: is that correct? Je confonds les structures anglaises avec les françaises. Je suppose que j'ai oublié mon français. Enfin! Je peux toujours m'exprimer en Anglais.

Sylvie LeFort

Belmont High står sig ganska bra i jämförelse med svenska skolor. Visserligen är byggnaden fallfärdig men undervisningen ästan helt i svenska skolor är "school spirit" Detta fenomen får fotbollsentusiaster att stå ute i hållande regn eller i isandre kyla för att heja fram skolans lag till seter.

Páll Einarsson

Dopo aver frequentato per un' anno la Belmont High School, posso veramente dire, che la cosa in se stess mi ha dato grande soddisfazione ed esperienza. Eio che di questa scuola ho, maggiormente ammirato sono! L'ottima direzione, da parte di rettori e professori; l'adequata impostazione dei programmi di studio e la sua perfetta organizzazione.

Mr. Henry H. Butler, Principal 1881-1899

The earliest high school classes met in the basement of the Congregational Church. In 1867, the high school was in a large wooden building on School Street, and the two rooms in the upper story were used for classes.

Thirty years later a new high school, adjoining the Town Hall, was constructed on Moore Street and was used until 1917. It was then that the present Belmont Senior High School was constructed behind the Roger Wellington School which served as a junior high. The Roger Wellington building was annexed to the high school on Orchard Street when the new junior high opened in 1927, which is located on Washington Street.

In 1963, Belmont was faced with building a new high school or an addition to the old high school. It was decided that a new wing be built. A year later, the Roger Wellington building was torn down, as the new section was well under construction.

On March 10, 1967, a spectacular $2 million fire left little more than the new wing. It was decided that the junior high school be used for double sessions for the remainder of the school year. Classes were later resumed in the present high school. On November 18, 1968, a decisive vote was made in favor of building the new school, on Concord Avenue which should be completed by September, 1970.

$2 Million Fire Guts West Wing

A fire which broke out at 10:30 p.m. last night at the Junior High School, 100 State St., gutted the west wing of the building, which is being used as a temporary classroom building. The fire, which was caused by a short circuit in the wiring, spread rapidly and was under control by 11:30 p.m. The damage to the building is estimated at $2 million. The school is closed today and tomorrow. The fire department is working to remove the debris and to reconstruct the damaged portion of the building. The school is expected to be closed for at least two weeks.

Double Sessions S At Junior High Sch

Session of school, John W. McFadden announced Wednesday

The old structure still stands
 with experience and age,
 through trying times its
 corridors have bellowed agony,
 and its cafeteria
 has swelled up with ecstasy.
 How diversified Belmont High
 has been.

What we would
 now call the present—
 it has taken on new leadership,
 with regard to a principal;
 it has taken on student government,
 no more codes for students' clothes;
 and it will take on a new form,
 but the Old will not die.

Within less than a year,
 the darkening red bricks
 will collect their ivy,
 and the old Orchard Street school
 will be long-forgotten.

Old must give way to Young,
 but what is new today—
 is old tomorrow.
 The fire it survived
 or the double sessions
 begun in March,
 will all become ancient history
 in the annals of the town of Belmont.

The final construction
 of a new Belmont High,
 will succeed in preparing
 its youth for the future—
 this once accepted as current events,
 will soon sit side by side
 with countless items
 of old news.

The New
 will include a campus-big and beautiful;
 who could ever have dreamed
 of such a reality!
 Yet the dream will soon be fulfilled.

But before it is,
 we, some of the members
 of the Old—the class of '70—wish
 you—the long line of classes
 who will be entering the New—
 a sincere hope,
 that the New
 will serve you—
 as the Old has served us.

SUPPLEMENT, 1970

Graduation Exercises

BELMONT SENIOR HIGH SCHOOL

JUNE 10, 1970

THE CLASS SONG

O Belmont High we sing to you,
Our school in recent days.
Steadfast for us your spirit true —
Accept our heartfelt praise.
Well guided by you through the years,
In many ways we've grown;
Now time for change again draws near —
Hope springs from trust you've shown.

O Belmont High we sing of you,
And knowledge shared with all;
Of books and classes, homework too —
And laughter in your halls.
As hearts now fill with memory
Of teachers and good friends;
O Belmont High — we part from you,
Advancing once again.
